Mt. Satopanth, the second highest summit in the Gangotri Group, is located in the remote India Garhwal Himalaya Range in a disjointed side-group separating the Gangotri and Chaturangi Glaciers. This is an incredibly beautiful and remote area with unlimited and untapped mountaineering and big wall potential. Views of Thalay Sagar, Shivering and the terrifying granite pillars of Bhagirathi III, described as "El Cap with a Droites North Face on top at 6000M", are enough to humble even the most seasoned climber. SINCE 1980 Shikhar Travels has been handling Mountaineering Expeditions and as on date we have successfully handled 300 Expeditions to INDIAN Himalayas.
